Range Master Certification Course Mar 12-16, 2012 (40 hrs – 5 Days)

Course Description:

Victory Defense Consulting is proud and excited to announce this course. We have finally put together the first Range Master course in a number of years to be held in the region and has strictly come about due to the many special requests. We know reducing liabilities and preventing injuries on the range, in the field, and associated with all firearms programs is near and dear to every department and agency. A Range Master course like this is critically needed and goes far beyond what standard firearms instructor courses cover – it's designed to teach Certified Firearms Instructors AND Firearms Program Managers how to administer firearms programs, design and evaluate courses of fire, design and evaluate range requirements, reduce risk, increase accuracy, understanding basic ammunition designs and purposes, calculate and evaluate the capacity of current facilities so they are operated properly and safely. This Range Master program will be challenging and inspiring but most importantly – departments, agencies, and firearms instructors can't afford NOT to attend this program. Seating for this course is limited and capped, based on first come, first served via website enrollments right here. Sign up now and secure a seat.

Who should Attend

All Firearms Instructors, Sr. Department Firearms Instructors, Firearms Program Managers, and Executive Officers who have never attended a Range Master course should attend. Any Firearms Instructor who wishes to take their training to the next professional level. Any department who manages their own range facility or shares one should send a representative.
